BANKS INCREASE INTEREST RATES

Town and County Banks Increase Rates of Interest from Three Per Cent to Three and a Half and More. Their Announcements.

The banks in Gettysburg and some of the towns of the upper end of the county announce through these columns the raise in interest rate on all time deposits, thereby allowing their patrons better return for the money left with them for a specified time. The increase is from three percent to three and a half and 3.65 per cent.

The first announcement came from the Biglerville National Bank on Wednesday when that institution advertised an increase to three and a half percent on all time certificates. The Citizens' Trust Company followed Thursday with a similar offer, placing two months as the time for which the money must be left on deposit to receive the interest. The same day the Bendersville National announced through The Times that they would pay 3.65 per cent on all deposits if left on deposit for sixty days or more.

In today's advertising columns will be found the announcements of the Gettysburg National and the First National banks that they will pay 3.12 per cent on all deposits for six months or more. The various financial institutions make their offers effective either at once or on November 1.

The banks in New Oxford, Littlestown, and York Springs have been paying three and a half per cent for some time. Banks in Hanover and York pay 3.50 or 3.65 while some nearby town institutions offer as high as four per cent.

The step taken by the local institutions will be welcomed and appreciated by all depositors.

EXPRESS TRAINS ARE TAKEN OFF

Fast Express Trains on Reading between here and Harrisburg to be Taken off on Sunday. No Parlor Car Service.

This week marks the end of the fast express and parlor car service on the Reading road between Gettysburg and Harrisburg, for the winter months at least. The new schedule goes into effect on Sunday.

The Reading will, however, improve its service by continuing passenger train service on Sunday, instead of abandoning it as in other years for a combined milk train service. The Sunday schedule will be the same as in other years, the train arriving at 10:35 and departing at 4:45.

The fast New York express will be taken off entirely and the parlor car on the train leaving here at 5:55 in the morning and arriving at 9:05 at night will also be taken off. The leaving time for the trains will be the same as during the summer months, 5:55 and 11:00 a. m. and 4:00 p. m.

One change is made in the arriving time, the train arriving here at 10:45 in the morning now being changed to 1:45. This leaves the arriving hours as 9:15 a. m., 1:45 and 9:05 p. m.

TY COBB HERE

Ty Cobb, known the country over as champion batsman of the American League and a member of the Detroit team, passed through Gettysburg shortly after 3 o'clock Thursday afternoon. He is enroute to his home at Royston, Georgia, and is accompanied by his wife and child. He is traveling in a Chalmers-Detroit roadster.

When interviewed by a reporter, Mr. Cobb stated that he was on his way home for a rest. He said that he expected to reach Atlanta by November 3d, where he will witness the automobile races, which take place on November 3, 4, and 5. He will also witness the races at Savannah on the 9th of November.

"When will you join the Detroit team again?" Mr. Cobb was asked.
"I will join the Detroit team in March, when they start their winter practice."

"Are you traveling in the Chalmers car that was presented to you in Philadelphia during the world's series game?"
"No I am traveling in another Chalmers roadster."

"What was your batting average this season?"
"I batted .382."

"I suppose you are now tired out, after the baseball season?"
"Yes, I am tired, and expect to get a good rest at my home this winter."

"Cobb passed through here several years ago when he was in the New York Herald-Atlanta Journal tour."

Ty Cobb is known all over the country as a great baseball player. For several seasons he has been the leading batter and base runner in the American League. He is one of the highest priced players in the League, and does much to keep Detroit in the position it holds. Ty Cobb joined a minor league in the South and did such remarkable work that he was offered a place in the American League.

IMPROVEMENTS ARE NUMEROUS

North and East Ends of Town Report Many New and Improved Homes, Pavements being Laid and Other Changes. New Houses.

New streets opened, handsome new houses in course of construction and further extensive work in the matter of the laying of concrete pavements are a few of the things which are contributing to the advancement of Gettysburg along the lines of real estate and the general appearance of the town.

Martin Winter has continued the opening of Fourth street from Hanover to East Middle streets, a distance of 372 feet width 50 feet. He has also graded about 700 feet of Fifth street between the York pike and Hanover street, width 50 feet.

Mrs. Gertrude Hauser is erecting a fine concrete brick house at the corner of Hanover and Fourth street. The bricks used in this house make a fine appearance and are made on the premises.

Martin Winter has painted the William Hauser house, also the wood work on the John Artzberger house, both on Hanover street.

Mrs. L. D. Miller and Peter Sachs have each put down concrete pavements at their properties on Hanover street.

The new dwelling houses of Raphael Fissel and Augustus Harner on Hanover street are completed and new concrete pavements have been put down.

Martin Winter has remodeled and enlarged the brick dwelling located on the Harrisburg road near the County Home, making two distinct houses with dormer windows, porch the entire front, etc. All the old outbuildings will be removed and a new barn erected.

Martin Winter has put down 300 feet of concrete pavement at the corner of Broadway and Mummasburg streets, and 100 feet at his double brick dwelling on Broadway. All the sidewalks not concreted or paved on Lincoln, Mummasburg and Broadway streets will be coated with crushed limestone.

The fine new brick house of Donald Swope, Esq., and C. E. Stable, Esq., on Broadway are nearing completion.

HOME LECTURE COURSE

A series of free lectures open to the people of town is being planned for the winter months by a committee appointed at the meeting of the college faculty on Thursday afternoon.

The plan is to have the lectures given by members of the faculty and others and it is said that several prominent alumni have offered to contribute lectures to the series. The committee will try to arrange them so that with the numbers on the Y. M. C. A. entertainment course there will be an attraction in Brua Chapel every week.

Some years ago a similar course was given by the college professors and several of the ministers of town and proved very enjoyable. In addition to those given by the men at the institution residents of town will remember lectures by Dr. Barkley and Dr. Demarest.

ARENDSVILLE HAS A FIRE

Arendtsville, Oct. 28.—About 12 o'clock Thursday, Harry Deardoff's hog pen was discovered to be on fire. The fire alarm was sounded and the bucket brigade responded promptly, and soon put out the blaze. The fire had gained considerable headway and the roof was badly burned. Mr. Deardoff had taken some soot out of his cook stove the day previous and put it into a box on the loft of the pen to fertilize his plants next summer and it is supposed that started the fire. Mr. Deardoff extends his sincere thanks to all those who aided in putting out the fire. Mr. and Mrs. Deardoff were absent having gone to Gettysburg to attend the funeral of Mr. Edward Culp.

BUILDING LOT SALES

HOUSE WITH A HISTORY

Two Girls Ran away from Home, One to Enter a Convent, the Other to Get Married. House in Lower End with Many Stories.

There stands on the farm of Vincent Lawrence in Oxford township a house built in 1806 from which one young girl ran away and after walking for a week through woods and fields in the dead of winter entered a convent, while another ran away to Emmitsburg and got married. Much other interesting history attaches to the place. The farm was for many years known as the Marshall place.

As early as 1735, the Marshalls sailed from France and settled in the section then known as "Conewago."

One Joseph Marshall bought the Marshall farm—then containing 212 acres, from Alexander Caldwell, paying for it in pounds, shillings and pence. Five generations of the Marshall descendants were reared on this farm, which is now owned by Vincent Lawrence, who is married to Miss Veronica Marshall, one of the last heirs of the estate.

When Joseph Marshall settled there the only early Catholic settlers about "Conewago" were the Marshalls, Sneeringers, Littles, and Shanefelters. Joseph Marshall had six children: Francis, a Jesuit priest; Joseph, a Jesuit brother; Jacob, who married Margaret Dellone, sister of the late Ignatius O'Boyle; Adam and Peter, who lived and died in Ohio, and Margaret, the only daughter, who ran from home and became a nun, against her parents' wishes.

On a cold mid-winter night, in February of 1810, while the ground was covered with snow, 19 year old Margaret Marshall, with a small bundle of personal effects, silently left her mother's room, in the old stone house, now standing and occupied by Vincent Lawrence and family, stealthily climbed out of a window and tramped afoot for twenty miles in the snow before she made her first stop. She walked for six days through the much wooded country, obtaining food and shelter at farm houses, until she reached Georgetown, Md., where she found four pious ladies in a novitiate, who were the only nuns in that part of the country in those days. She begged admittance, was received as a novice, and became a sister. In 1834 she went to Mobile, Alabama, and founded the first Visitation Convent about there and became the Mother Superior of that institution.

From this same stone house Miss Elizabeth Lawrence, daughter of the present owner of the Marshall farm, ran away from home a few years ago, telling her parents that she was going to spend the night at a neighbor's house. A few days later word came that she was at Emmitsburg, Md., and was married there by a priest to a neighbor boy, and would be home soon. After her parents' forgiveness on their return the couple settled on a farm nearby, where they now live.

After Joseph Marshall's death the farm was sold in 1798 to one of the heirs. In 1853 Francis Marshall bought the farm at $21.75 per acre. Later Susan Marshall bought 17 acres of the original farm, upon which she built a small house, in which she still lives, adjoining the old farm.

The stone house, in which Vincent Lawrence now lives, was erected in 1806, 104 years ago.

CONGRESSMAN LAFEAN ACCOMPLISHED ALL CANDIDATE BRODBECK PROMISES TO DO

Guarded Zealously the Interests and Welfare of His Constituents During His Career at Washington and in Every Instance He Has Taken Advantage of the Opportunity to Obtain the Enactment of Legislation for Their Benefit.

The voters of the Twentieth Pennsylvania district will do well to bear in mind the fact that the things Andrew R. Brodbeck, Democratic candidate for congress, is promising to do for them if they will only send him to Washington have already been done by Representative D. F. Lafean. A glance at the record of Mr. Lafean's service cannot help but convince even the most prejudiced mind of this truth. While Candidate Brodbeck is going around telling the people what a useful public servant he will be to them if they will give him their support, Mr. Lafean has been at the helm in congress, guarding zealously the interests and welfare of his constituents and in not a single instance has he ever missed an opportunity to obtain the enactment of legislation which he felt would work for the good of this community. If any man in congress has been more earnest in caring for the interests of the old soldiers, their widows and orphans than Representative Lafean his name does not appear on the rolls of our national legislature. Always a strong advocate in favor of liberalizing the pension laws in order that the declining days of the veterans of the Union might be made as easy and comfortable as possible, Mr. Lafean has always been one of the strongest supporters of a service pension bill. He is the author and secured the enactment into law of the widows' pension bill granting pension of $12 a month to the widows of soldiers who married prior to June 27, 1890, and has an amendment pending in congress making widows who married since this date beneficiaries of the law. In addition to this, Mr. Lafean has secured pensions for his constituents both under the general law and through special acts of congress. The veterans know how Mr. Lafean has always worked in their behalf in season and out.

The interests of the farmers and laboring men of York and Adams counties have received special attention at the hands of Mr. Lafean. It was through his untiring efforts that the farmers now enjoy the benefits of a complete rural mail delivery service, enabling them to obtain their letters and newspapers each day, delivered at their doors by the rural carriers a service which is not costing the tax payers of the district a single penny.

When the Payne bill, providing for the free importation of tobacco from the Philippine Islands, was before the house for consideration, Mr. Lafean took off his coat, worked day and night and used all the influence at his command to defeat this measure. Its passage would have meant that the tobacco raisers, cigarmakers and manufacturers of this district would have been placed at the mercy of the cheap Coolie labor of the East. His record in this respect is well known to everyone interested in the tobacco industry. He knew that the Payne bill would have worked irreparable injury to a large number of his constituents and he did not propose that it should become a law if he could prevent it.

Being a man who has had business training and experience, Mr. Lafean has never counselled extravagance in government expenditures. He realized as every sensible man must, that the demands upon the purse of Uncle Sam are constantly growing and that certain obligations must be met. But he never advocated the expenditure of a single dollar of government money if the revenues were not sufficient to meet the outlay. In carrying out this policy of economy, Mr. Lafean was one of the few who voted against increasing the salaries of Senators and Representatives.

Mr. Lafean demonstrated to the people that he is against trusts and monopolies when he started and successfully carried on the fight resulting in the defeat of the Land Grant bill which would have robbed the United States government out of thousands of dollars through the sale of worthless lands in the District of Columbia. He cast his vote in support of the railroad rate bill, which provided against discriminations in favor of large shippers and afforded greater protection to the smaller ones.

These are some of the most important pieces of legislation in which Mr. Lafean took a prominent part in their enactment. Included in the list are many which have worked for the good of the people of this district and for the country at large. Mr. Lafean has made no promise that he has not fulfilled. He is a record of achievements and not words.

"MOTOR BURGLAR" UNDER ARREST

Charged With Committing Robberies and Escaping in Auto.

Passaic, N. J., Oct. 28.—Henry Anthony, twenty-one years old, whom the police charge with being the man who has terrorized the fashionable "hill" section for more than a year by his desperate methods of burglary, was captured. The police say he owns an automobile and always motored on his expeditions. He was arrested near his home in Hoboken. Besides a fully loaded revolver, a blackjack and a jimmy, the police found a number of photographs of pretty girls in his pocket. There are more than thirty separate complaints against the terror of the "hill," and the police believe that his year's work has netted him about $5000. He has narrowly escaped capture while at work many times. His most spectacular getaway was April 15, when he was cornered in the home of George Ryall. He promptly knocked Lizzie Crestor, a domestic, senseless with a blackjack and escaped, but the girl was able to furnish the police with the first description of the young burglar.

Chester, Pa., Oct. 28.—Sarah O'Brien, a pretty young girl, was bereft of her curls, she says, when enticed away by an Italian girl to a house on West Sixth street.

Sarah's unusual absence worried her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank O'Brien, who notified the police. Two officers, who were assigned to the case, found Sarah. The child's hair had been cut off close to her head.

No arrests have yet been made, but it is understood the child's parents propose to begin proceedings.

WORKSHOP VS. BUCKETSHOP

Roosevelt on 52d Birthday Brought Out New Campaign Slogan. Gloversville, N. Y., Oct. 28.—Colonel Theodore Roosevelt, celebrating his fifty-second birthday anniversary on the stump, brought out a new campaign war cry in his speech here on Thursday.

"The issue is the workshop against the bucketshop," said he, in addressing the crowd which packed the big opera house.

"We stand for honesty and the workshop," he continued. "Our opponents stand for political corruption and the bucketshop. Whenever you find a little center of dissension with the Republican ticket in this campaign you will find that it springs from correspondence with the bucketshops or from people affected by the tigger crowd."

In discussing the "New Nationalism" Colonel Roosevelt said:

"I wish that you would read my Osawatimie speech. I stand by every word of it."

He added that the American people as a whole were sure to stand by his "New Nationalism."

So, adds the baron, Mr. Roosevelt has been made the recipient of a diploma "Debrouillard," that is, the exponent of the strenuous life.

AERONAUTS TELL OF HARDSHIPS

Snowstorm Caused Post and Hawley to Descend.

NEARLY LANDED IN LAKE BOT! LANDED SAFELY

Sky Sailors Suffered Greatly During the Four Days They Sought Civilization in Wilds of Canada.

Quebec, Oct. 28.—Hawley and Post, of the balloon America II, reached Quebec, having taken eleven hours in traveling the 227 miles from Chicoutimi by the Lake St. John railway.
Both men are in excellent health and spirits, notwithstanding their strenuous experiences of the last ten days.
Many interesting new details of their flight were given out by the aeronauts. Their course into the wilds of northern Quebec was rather more westerly than that of the Dusseldorf, which landed near Kiskiskin, due south of Lake St. John, for the America II, in soaring north of Lake St. John left the big inland sea to the immediate east, obtaining a fine view of it and crossing first over the Annapolis river and the village of Peribonca, just south of Lake Tschotogama. It was on the shore of Lake Tschotogama that Hawley and Post fell in with the hunters who piloted them into the pathway of safety.
"We were doing our best," said Mr. Post, "to fly to the utmost limits that the continent would allow. We knew perfectly well where we were when we passed over Lake St. John on Wednesday, the 19th, and we made up our minds that if possible we wouldn't descend until we got to the coast of Labrador. On Wednesday afternoon, however, the weather, which had been threatening all day, began to make us very apprehensive.
Encountered Blinding Snowstorm.
"At 3 o'clock in the afternoon snow had already begun to fall and soon our view of the earth beneath was almost entirely obscured. We judged that this meant the end of our trip, for it would have been madness to have pursued the journey in a blinding snowstorm.
"Furthermore, the extreme cold had caused our gas to contract and we had begun to fall rapidly. We only had six and a half bags of ballast left, when at last very reluctantly we decided to effect a landing. We at once began to look around for a good landing place, but owing to the rapidity with which the snowstorm overtook us we had to trust pretty much to luck.
"We found ourselves dropping directly into a large lake, which we afterwards discovered to be Lake Challe-gana. We immediately threw out several bags of ballast and rose slowly and heavily in the snowstorm. Madly we threw out more ballast, for the lack of ready response by the balloon had alarmed us and made us think for a moment that we should possibly perish in the lake—a miserable ending to such a splendid journey.
"But on a terrific gust of wind the balloon whirled aloft, carrying us in a few seconds beyond the lake. Then we at once let out the gas and came down safely on the side of a huge hill. It is unlikely that the balloon will be recovered.
"However, it is lost in a good cause. We have, without doubt, beaten the world's record by more than 200 miles. "We really suffered greatly from the cold as the America II. We were seriously hampered by the goods we had to pack, for it was absolutely necessary to take along the heaviest clothing, besides the remaining food. Frequently we made through streams of ice cold water. So cold was the weather that at times our clothing was frozen to our bodies. When we came across the trappers the fourth day we could have cried for joy. We were about all in."

WIND PUSHES AIRMEN BACK

Johnstone and Hoxey Carried Far From Field.

They Ascended For Altitude In Windstorm and Were Blown Backward For Miles.

New York, Oct. 28.—Arch Hoxey at the international aviation meet at Belmont park jumped into one of the older fashioned Wright biplanes and ascended for altitude in a wind storm.
At a height of three-quarters of a mile or more Hoxey and his aeroplane were blown backward over Long Island for twenty-four and one-half miles in a wind estimated at forty-five to fifty miles an hour above ground. He managed to land safely at Brentwood, L. I.
Johnstone upon hearing the Hoxey machine buzzing into the wind storm ran out to climb into his own old model Wright biplane and chased upward toward the blue wind clouds.
Gale Pushed Them Back.
Thereupon the unusual spectacle of seeing aeroplanes going rapidly backward was presented to the big crowd below, whose feathers and fustings were being flattened by the wind and dust storm that were charging across the field. Johnstone also backed up and off the field as if making a stake bow in an upside down direction from the grand stands and he was blown backward in an air line of fifty-five miles to Middle Island, in the interior of Long Island. Johnstone also managed to land safely.
As neither Hoxey nor Johnstone landed inside the aviation field their altitude barograph measurements will not stand officially, and it is not likely that they will be awarded the hourly altitude prizes of the day for the same reason. Hoxey landed an hour and twenty-five minutes after arising from the field, and Johnstone landed after being in the air two hours.

Brookings Faces Wind

While they were fighting the wind Latham in his Antoinette was winning the first hourly distance event in the softer wind, which was blowing about eighteen miles an hour a few feet above the ground. Later on the Antoinette flyer was offered $750 by the management to fly around for the benefit of the crowd, but as the wind still was rising, Latham refused. Brookings, however, ascended without the incentive of a special bonus just before the wind began to sweep the dust across the field in yellow clouds that shut off the view of the grand stand. Brookings, therefore, won the second, or special, hourly altitude and distance prizes of $250 each.
The results of the day's flying was very easily recorded. One event was all that the officials passed upon. It was: First hourly distance—Won by Latham, 14 laps; time, 55 minutes 24 15-100 seconds. No second or third.

DICKINSON FLIES

Secretary of War Goes Up In Biplane In France.
Paris, Oct. 28.—Jacob M. Dickinson, the American secretary of war, visited the military aviation camp at Chalons. Mr. Dickinson expressed himself as surprised at the development of the French military aviation corps and congratulated the officers in charge of the camp.
Mr. Dickinson made a cross-country flight in a biplane with Lieutenant Maillefer as pilot.

Italian Flyer Killed

Rome, Oct. 28.—Lieutenant Saglietti, a military aviator, was killed while flying at the aviation grounds at Centocelle. The machine fell to the ground and the aviator was caught under the machinery. The aeroplane was smashed to pieces.

Soldier Shot Off Finger

Atlanta, Ga., Oct. 28.—Although he shot off a portion of his right index finger to escape military service, Private Eugene Lussier, Company I, Seventeenth United States infantry, did not free himself from military domination. His sentence to one year's imprisonment at Fort Leavenworth, Kan., for willfully disabling himself was announced, in addition to his dishonorable discharge from the service.

No shoe store anywhere offers a better variety of shapes, styles or leathers than you find here. The popularity of Hanover shoes is evidenced by the remarkable growth in ten years from one to 41 stores, and the reason for this success is simply the fact that Hanovers are the greatest shoe value on earth. # FACTS IN THE CASE

Republican Misrepresentation of Mr. Brodbeck's Position Refuted. He Stands for the Farmer and the Workingman at All Times.

Since the protective tariff system is founded upon the falsehood that the granting of special privileges to a few favored individuals will insure good times to all the nation, it is not strange that the advocates of the system should try to bolster up their pretensions by falsehoods of another kind. When the tide of argument runs against them they resort to misrepresentation a York Republican paper, having found it impossible to meet the arguments and the propositions advanced by Mr. Brodbeck and his supporters, resorts to this falsehood in an attempt to bolster up a bad cause and a cause that is tottering to its fall.
"Brodbeck, in his literature, proposes to reduce the farmers' income. Can the farmers vote for a man who publicly says he will aid in reducing the prices they receive for their wares?"
The statement that Mr. Brodbeck proposes, in his literature or anywhere else, "to reduce the farmers' income" is absolutely false. He has never said or proposed any such thing. It is self evident that the words quoted are a mighty weak foundation for a political campaign.

What Mr. Brodbeck "proposes" is to increase the farmers' income by reducing what he must pay out. He "proposes" to do all in his power to do away with the present discrimination against the farmer, and also the discrimination against the city working man, which results in the high cost of living.
The farmer sells his eggs for from 20 to 25 cents a dozen, the trust puts them in storage and sells them later so that the consumer has to pay from 45 to 65 cents a dozen.
The trust buys the farmers' meat at a low price and then resells it so that the consumer has to pay the exorbitant prices which are too well known to need mentioning here, while at the same time the trust sends to England alone half a billion pounds of beef yearly where it is retailed at prices closely approximating the wholesale prices in this country.
The trust buys his grain at a low price for his tobacco and sells it in the form of the manufactured article at a price so high that it can pay enormous dividends.
The trust pays him such a low price for wool that this industry is not profitable and then charges for the cloth prices that place it beyond the reach of millions of those who need it most.

This is the way the trusts gouge the farmer on the side when he has articles to sell, and on the other side gouge him and the city working man when they buy trust products. And here are some of the things on which the farmer pays an enormous tariff tax, articles which he does not sell, but which he has to buy.
The trusts are hoarding up money at an astonishing rate. There is no doubt of their "prosperity." The farmer is having a hard time to establish even a modest bank account. The working man is lucky if he is able to make his pay envelope meet his weekly expenses. The trust magnates have their automobiles by the half dozen, or more, their yachts and their winter and summer palaces. The farmer has his humble home, if he is lucky, and his work horses, or mules, to take him to town when business demands, for he has little leisure for pleasure trips. The working man can ride in the street cars by the payment of nickels, and in the large majority of cases the nearest he can get to a home is a very humble affair for which he has to pay rent.

This is the situation the farmers and other working men of this district are facing in this election. A vote for Lafean is a vote to continue it. A vote for Brodbeck is a vote for a man who will do all in his power to make it more just. The facts are on Mr. Brodbeck's side. The buncombe and misrepresentation are on the other side.

Tariff Protects American Workmen Against Cheap European Labor.

A large percentage of the population of York and Adams Counties is employed in the factories, mills and other establishments which contribute to make this district one of the most important in the state in respect to diversified industries.

A. R. Brodbeck, Democratic nominee for Congress from the 20th Penna. District, in his attacks on the present tariff law, which afford ample protection to the working men of this community from the cheap labor of European countries, is a free trader, and would vote for Representative Champ Clark, of Missouri, for Speaker, in case of his election and in the event of a Democratic House in the Sixty-second Congress. The Democratic leader has declared that he "would tear down the custom-houses from turret to foundation stone."

Candidate Brodbeck would remove the duty ranging from 75 cents to $2 per dozen pairs on stockings. He would take off the duty of 15 per cent, imposed in the Payne bill on plows, tooth and disk harrows, harvesters, reapers, agricultural drills and planters, mowers, horsepowers, cultivators, threshing machines and other agricultural implements. He would allow the free importation of automobiles, now assessed at 45 per cent. He would advocate the free admission of boots and shoes now paying a duty of 10 per cent. He would allow the free importation of brushes and brooms, now taxed at 40 cents. He would be against the duty of 45 per cent, imposed on the importation of musical instruments. Mr. Brodbeck would do all these things, and force the manufacturers of this district to cut down the wages of the laboring men in order to meet competition from foreign sources.

These are but a few of the most important articles turned out by the labor of the citizens of this district and which are sent to all parts of the world. They give but a fair idea of the extent of the manufacturing business in the two counties and the need for ample protection from foreign competition. Can Mr. Brodbeck call himself consistent by representing on the one hand that he is a friend of the laboring man, and on the other by declaring in the most vigorous terms possible that he would abolish the tariff if he had his way.

He says he will work for the interest of the farmers of this community.

The Payne bill imposes a tax of $1.85 a pound on wrapper and filler tobacco, and on cigars, cigarettes and cheroots it levies a duty of $4.50 a pound. Mr. Brodbeck would wipe out this profitable industry entirely if he had his way about it, for he would abolish all tariff on these commodities and subject those engaged in the raising and manufacture of tobacco in its various forms to come into competition with the cheap Coolie labor of the East.

The farmers and the laboring men of York and Adams Counties are not going to be misled by Candidate Brodbeck's claims. They realize that a tariff is absolutely necessary to the welfare of themselves and the community, and they do not intend to allow the products of cheap foreign labor to come into competition with their home industries and close down the mills and factories in which they are engaged.

HE KNEW HIM WELL.

But That Was No Excuse For Publicly Insulting Him.

About the year 1847 Charles Webb was playing at the old Chatbam theater, New York, and during the engagement he became intimate with a young fish dealer named Shapleigh, doing business in Washington market. The fish dealer was a genius in more ways than one. In his younger days he had belonged to a juvenile dramatic company, and in his manhood, since making Webb's acquaintance, he had been behind the curtain during rehearsal and had really fancied he would "dearly love to appear just once."

Webb became satisfied that Shapleigh could act and was willing to please him, and it so happened that an opportunity presented itself which had not been anticipated. The night of Webb's benefit had been fixed, on which occasion he was to play the character of Hamlet. The actor who had been set apart for the character of Polonius was unexpectedly called away. In which emergency Webb sought his friend at Washington market and asked him if he would help him. Shapleigh was only too glad to do it. The eventful night came, and a front box had been reserved for Shapleigh's wife and little daughter and other relatives and friends. The house was packed, with every bit of standing room occupied. The play commenced and all went well, the beneficiary receiving round after round of applause on his first entrance, and it was the same with the kind friend who had "so magnanimously volunteered his valuable services." The first act went off smoothly. In the second act, scene 2, Polonius is on the stage with king and queen, when to them enters Hamlet, reading from a book. King and queen are unceremoniously hustled out of the way. "Do you know me, my lord?" Polonius asks. "Excellent well. You are a fishmonger." Hamlet replies, according to the text. This aroused the indignation of Shapleigh's wife, and, forgetting all else but the direct insult offered to her husband, she exclaimed loud enough to be heard in every part of the house: "Well, it ain't very nice of you, Mr. Webb, after Tom has been so good to you to go showing him up in public in that fashion! I'd have you know that a fishmonger, as you call him, is as good as an actor any day!" For a moment a wondering silence fell upon the house. That moment was caught by Shapleigh, whose wits had not forsaken him, and, looking up toward his wife's box, he said, with an assuring nod: "It's all right, Bessie. It's so in the book!" And then, the secret out, the house "came down."
